

WILL REMOVE ERRONEOUS IDEA

WILL REMOVE ERRONEOUS IDEAS

THIS convention, meeting at this peculiar time, is to me mind the most potent instrument that could have been chosen to manifest to the people of the East that the state that California has changed her mind upon the question of Asiatic immigration is at least erroneous, if not absolutely false.
 California, through this convention, will tell the people of the East that she is as loyal as the river was to her laboring population and as determined as ever to protect them against the cheap from the East.—Excerpted from Chairman Thomas J. Geary's address at the Chinese Exclusion Convention.

SUPPORTED BY A

THE ONLY ONE BARRED OUT.
 NED AMERICAN STATESMAN.—“We must draw the line somewhere.”

THE ONLY ONE BARRED OUT

ENLIGHTENED AMERICAN STATESMAN.—"We must draw the line somewhere, you know."

Image via Los Angeles Times

March 13, 2020 is a day that no student nationwide will forget. Instead of a two week break, it turned into a new reality unbeknownst to everybody. In a scary time with mass deaths to this new and unfamiliar virus, instead of the nation banding together, hatred prevailed.

The virus being known as the Chinese Virus put a direct target on Asian Americans' backs and the rise in hate crimes just showed the impact of misinformation and hatred had on Asian American communities. According to a NBC news article, hate crimes against Asian Americans have increased 339% last year nationwide.

my story

Kylie O'Donnell

Being an Asian American in America, it would be a lie if I told you that I wasn't scared for my family during these recent years. The on-going hate crimes being shown on the news only spark my fear of the world and my perceived hatred that the world has always had. My Mom specifically had experienced a lot of racism growing up. Immigrating from Hong Kong for a better life, she settled in Seattle, in the projects. She was the victim to words like "chinamen", "ch*nk", and even had her backyard set on fire multiple times by ruthless and hateful neighbors. Even when moving to California when she was older, she was the victim to multiple comments questioning her education and smartness.

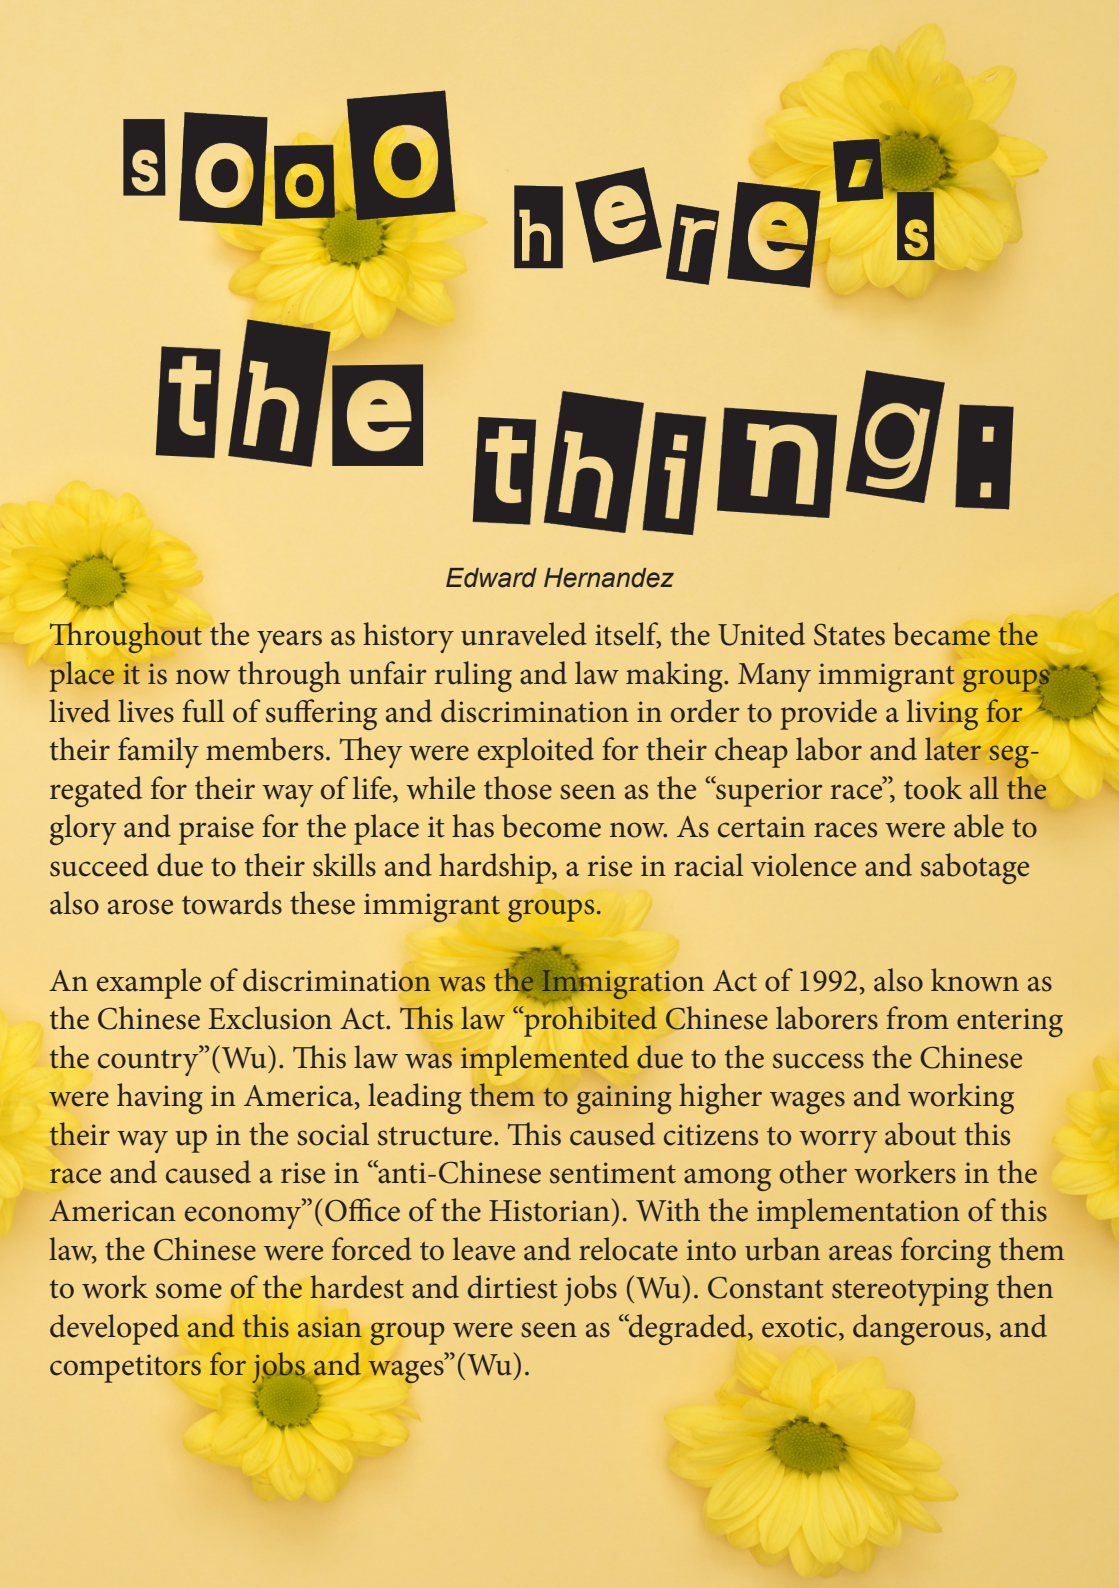

stop asian hate

My mom's experience is just a slice of what other Asian Americans face in this world. Many new reported hate crimes consist of people telling Asian Americans to go back to "where they came from" and how we "are a virus". Although these hate crimes have been influenced over the course of the past year, the hate crimes were always there even if it seemed unnoticed before.

Years of discrimination and banding other ethnicities against each other has led to Asian Americans feeling left out and feeling only able to get help from their own communities. The model minority myth, racial paranoia, and immigration bans definitely had a large impact on my family's experience in America and it's impact is on Asian Americans nationwide.

My Family
Kylie O'Donnell

The background of the entire page is a solid light yellow color. Scattered across the page are several bright yellow daisy flowers with green centers. Some flowers are in the top right corner, some in the middle left, and some in the bottom left and bottom right corners.

s o o o h e r e s t h e t h i n g :

Edward Hernandez

Throughout the years as history unraveled itself, the United States became the place it is now through unfair ruling and law making. Many immigrant groups lived lives full of suffering and discrimination in order to provide a living for their family members. They were exploited for their cheap labor and later segregated for their way of life, while those seen as the “superior race”, took all the glory and praise for the place it has become now. As certain races were able to succeed due to their skills and hardship, a rise in racial violence and sabotage also arose towards these immigrant groups.

An example of discrimination was the Immigration Act of 1992, also known as the Chinese Exclusion Act. This law “prohibited Chinese laborers from entering the country”(Wu). This law was implemented due to the success the Chinese were having in America, leading them to gaining higher wages and working their way up in the social structure. This caused citizens to worry about this race and caused a rise in “anti-Chinese sentiment among other workers in the American economy”(Office of the Historian). With the implementation of this law, the Chinese were forced to leave and relocate into urban areas forcing them to work some of the hardest and dirtiest jobs (Wu). Constant stereotyping then developed and this asian group were seen as “degraded, exotic, dangerous, and competitors for jobs and wages”(Wu).

Photo via <https://chineseamerican.nyhistory.org/exhibition-highlights/what-shall-we-do-with-our-boys/>

Image falsely depicting Chinese

Executive Order 9066 was another controversial order during WWII that led to discrimination towards the Japanese. "On February 19, 1942, President Franklin D. Roosevelt signs Executive Order 9066" (History.com). This order "forced removal of resident "enemy aliens" from parts of the West vaguely identified as military areas" (History.com). During this time, the Japanese people were seen as one of the most successful groups of immigrants due to their success in farming and businesses. This projected racism towards them by the whites and after the bombing of Pearl Harbor, it caused an eruption of rage and hate crimes towards this group of people. The citizens demanded mass relocation and forced the Japanese to be "forcibly placed in crude, cramped quarters" (History.com). Their peaceful lives, no matter if they were citizens or not, were harshly interrupted and caused many to lose businesses, farms, and loved ones.

While the Japanese's lives were harshly affected during WWII, other asian groups' lives improved drastically due to them being allies with the US. Many earned citizenships "and helped rescind exclusion acts"(Espiritu). During the war, there was a drastic shortage in labor. Because of this, Asian Americans, including both men and women, were offered many opportunities that allowed them to succeed during a time of hardship. While other Asian groups were thriving, the Japanese were being incarcerated and taken unfairly. During this time, this group grew "feelings of despair, hopelessness, and insecurity"(Espiritu). This executive order lasted until 1947 when president Harry S. Truman pardoned them in December 1947,(Hirabayashi). During those 5 years, many lost loved ones and caused families to fall apart. The Japanese faced regression and caused them to restart their lives from square 1. This time inflicted racial trauma towards this group of people simply because of their race that they had no control over.

Photo via History.com. Library of Congress/Corbis/VCG/Getty Images

Image showing the cramped internment camps

When it comes to race, groups that place themselves as “superior” tend to treat the others in an inhumane manner. This all began with the African Americans and slavery. Because of the banning of slavery, whites allowed for other immigrant groups to enter the country and place below them in a manner that wasn’t seen as slavery but very unfair to these certain groups. If they tried revolting against this, they were quickly aligned by citizens. Deaths could be involved but as long as it wasn’t the whites being killed, no further legal action was taken because these immigrant groups were seen as insignificant.

The US and its history as a whole has been framed by exploited labor and unfair discrimination, it has been a trend to target a group of people or race in order for citizens to relieve their anger and blame them for any incident that is currently occurring. If it’s a shortage of work or a major world incident, the US always finds and discriminates against certain groups. It has been seen countless times during history. If an immigrant race starts to succeed and do better than the whites, they are pushed out of the US and another race is brought in in order to exploit them for their cheap labor. If a major incident such as WWII or 9/11 occurs, these groups are harshly discriminated against and hate crimes are conducted forcing these groups to live in fear and slowly regress or flee the country. History continues to repeat itself and it is doing it right now, in front of our eyes during this pandemic.

changing

Lucas Fontes

It is obvious that discrimination in the Asian American society has dramatically increased ever since the rise of Covid-19. There are numerous stories and experiences that show these aggressions towards Asian Americans. Luckily, there are multiple ways and strategies to prevent all of this hatred and discrimination towards Asian American citizens. One way to prevent Asian hate is that people should stop blaming others, mostly Chinese Americans, about the cause of Covid-19 and instead they should work together as a community and country to slow down the spread. Working together instead of blaming Asian Americans for this disease will prevent these many types of aggressions and could possibly cause America to return to normalcy more efficiently. If you or anyone else is not affected by these hate crimes then it is always courteous to call and be there and care for those who are heavily affected. In the article, "Hate in America has Become a Commonplace. What Can We Do to Stop the Hate?". It gives us advice such as getting a community together to stop the hate and racism. This will cause the victims to feel wanted and safer. There have been many people discriminated against in America but more specifically, Asian Americans have been a larger target recently due to Covid-19. There are many ways to prevent these evil and harmful acts and many ways to show concern for the people in need.

Works Cited:

"Chinese Immigration and the Chinese Exclusion Acts." U.S. Department of State, U.S. Department of State, <https://history.state.gov/milestones/1866-1898/chinese-immigration>.
Espiritu, Yen Le. "Changing Lives: World War II and the Postwar Years." Asian American Women and Men: Labor, Laws, and Love, Rowman & Littlefield Publishers, Lanham, Md, 2008.
"FDR Orders Japanese Americans into Internment Camps." History.com, A&E Television Networks, 16 Nov. 2009, <https://www.history.com/this-day-in-history/fdr-signs-executive-order-9066>.
Hirabayashi, Lane Ryo. "Incarceration." Keywords for Asian American Studies, NYU Press, 2015.
"Ten Ways to Fight Hate: A Community Response Guide." Southern Poverty Law Center, 14 Aug. 2017, <https://www.splcenter.org/20170814/ten-ways-fight-hate-community-response-guide>.
Wu, Yuning. "Chinese Exclusion Act." Encyclopædia Britannica, Encyclopædia Britannica, Inc., <https://www.britannica.com/topic/Chinese-Exclusion-Act>.
Yam, Kimmy. "Anti-Asian Hate Crimes Increased 339 Percent Nationwide Last Year, Report Says." NBCNews.com, NBCUniversal News Group, 14 Feb. 2022, <https://www.nbcnews.com/news/asian-america/anti-asian-hate-crimes-increased-339-percent-nationwide-last-year-repo-rcna14282>.

inst Asian-Americans
Especially in California

...the most serious danger to the future of the United States is the influx of Chinese immigrants. The Chinese are a race of slaves, and their presence in this country is a disgrace to our civilization. They are a threat to our white population, and their numbers are increasing rapidly. We must take action to protect our white citizens from the Chinese menace.

...the Chinese are a race of slaves, and their presence in this country is a disgrace to our civilization. They are a threat to our white population, and their numbers are increasing rapidly. We must take action to protect our white citizens from the Chinese menace.

pointed Clerk
use Employees

to be taken from the Library...

CHINESE EXCLUSION CONVENTION OPENS FIGHT IN DEFENSE OF AMERICAN LABOR

PRESIDENT WILL URGE RE-ENACTMENT OF EXCLUSION LAW.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 21, 1901.—Hon. James D. Phelan, San Francisco, Cal.: "I have seen the President. I have the best authority for saying that he will not only recommend in his message the re-enactment of the Geary law, but will go further and urge that it be made stronger."

CHINESE QUESTION ONE OF RACE

It is the members of the Golden Gate who must stand here forever in the pathway of the Orient, and if there is any danger in this it is for us to stand the story. I regard the Chinese question as a race question. I regard it as an international question, and above and over the question involving the preservation of our civilization. The State of California, with its seven hundred miles of southern frontier, is in a position to speak on this question for the people of the United States.—Excerpt from Mayor James D. Phelan's address at the Chinese Exclusion Convention.

WILL REMOVE ERRONEOUS IDEAS

THIS convention, meeting at this particular time, is to try and the most potent instrument that could have been chosen is manifest to the people of the East that the story that California has changed her mind upon the question of Chinese immigration is of that verities. It is absolutely false. California, through this convention, will tell the people of the East that she is as loyal as she ever was to her laboring population, and as determined as ever to protect them against the danger from the East.—Excerpt from Chairman Thomas J. Geary's address at the Chinese Exclusion Convention.

Leading Citizens Gather to Urge Re-enactment of the Geary Law.

CHINAMEN'S REMOVAL IS ADVOCATED

Strong Addresses in Behalf of the Laboring People of the Coast.

THE CHINESE DEFENDED.

"E. E." Replies to Her Critics of Saturday,

AND IS SUPPORTED BY A

PROOPIUM DOCTOR.

CHINESE "FRESH" MR. BUCHANAN AND HIS HOUSES AND PROTECTED.
I am a little surprised that Mr. Buchanan, who has "helped in every way the F. M. C. of the Presbyterian Church to provide the only antidote for the Chinaman's vice—the Gospel of the Lord Jesus Christ," should want to keep the Chinaman away from that antidote. It is really unkind of him, unless, of course, he has not as much faith in that antidote as he pretends to have. I know if I were a Chinaman, and Mr. Buchanan came to me with his antidote, I'd dash it to the ground, declaring it was poison.
Mr. Buchanan echoes Mr. Maxwell when he says: "The white man is under the restraint of civilization, and endeavors to hide his wrong doing, while the Chinaman has no sense of wrong and no sense of shame."
Why, the Chinese are the oldest civilized people on the face of this earth—as all widely educated people know, their is a grand old civilization.
The Chinese who come to Canada are mostly country boys; they have had a common school education, and from an early age have been trained to work—and the habit of working is strong on them. How, then, can they be gaudy birds, dissipated characters and diseased? Such cannot work, we know that. The Chinaman by his labor here proves himself to be what he claims he is. It is impossible for a hard-working man to be an out and out bad fellow. Why, the poor things have no time to indulge in the vices they are charged with.
Then opium smoking comes up. With-

...of the Ch... is an old... knows. T... Buchan... is object... white m... cause he... the white... in a whi... however... as well a... man can... restraint... that "the... wrong an... avoids "p... church po... ity in no... The Ch... debt of g... has taken... know "t... writes," d... anan wou... believe th... Mr. Bus... all about... been earn... the Gosp... among th... taking m... for so bit... letter tha... "hide his... of civiliz... Now, M... first plac... that ther... being tho... al issue.

MS Are
at

NIHILIST-SOCIALIST-FENIAN & MOODLUM WELCOME BUT NO ADMITTANCE TO CHINAMEN

THE ONLY ONE BARRED OUT.

ENLIGHTENED AMERICAN STATESMAN.—"We must draw the line somewhere you know!"